

SUGGESTIONS

There are few suggestions for further research works which has been listed as below:

- Setting up and organizing seminars, workshops, conferences for understanding historical research works, like; ‘Polity formation in Surma Barak Valley’ which is now-a-days known as two countries of the world, i.e., India and Bangladesh.
- Research works should be given emphasis into schools and colleges especially through attractive policies which directly benefits the students to know about earlier histories in sense of teaching and learning.
- Documentary films on the social and polity formation of Surma Barak Valley should be screened in the villages and towns in any special occasions which directly encourage the people to know about the earlier histories of Surma Barak valley.
- Local community, Non-government organizations and donor agencies more participations and efforts are required to properly assess historical research work in awareness programmes which creates awareness to learn something new about the earlier society of the valley.
- A research can be undertaken on some teachers of history at any level as there are works available at the national or international level related to the Surma Barak Valley.
- One may undertake a research study exclusively on ‘Social formation in Surma Barak Valley’ which may be a good topic for another research.
- Government Records related to Surma Barak Valley should be arranged systematically for future prospects.

Finally, it can be said that any scholar may undertake a research study on any topic taking the guidelines from this present topic of research in Surma Barak Valley. It will also help the researchers, teachers, students of Barak Valley as well as other places of this country or any other countries of the world.
